

Music Director (part-time)

Julian of Norwich Anglican Church - Ottawa West, ON

Julian of Norwich Anglican Church in west Ottawa seeks a creative and technically competent person to assume keyboard and choral music leadership in our faith community. The church has a Casavant pipe organ, a Kawai-ES7 keyboard, and a choir of 10 voices. The ideal candidate will have knowledge of traditional and contemporary music, Anglican liturgy, and certification from the RCCO or equivalent training/experience. The Music Director will have the skills to use music as an enhancement to the worship experience, and the capacity to offer creative musical events in the wider community. The responsibilities of the Music Director include:

- Participate in planning liturgy.
- Conduct rehearsals, drawing upon the musical gifts of choir members;
- Comply with copyright regulations and reporting required;
- Recommend enhancements to the music program;
- Liaise with other musicians, choirs, and the wider community;
- Recommend repairs to the organ and other musical instruments;
- Provide music for weddings, funerals and other special services; and
- Arrange for a back-up musician, as required.

The Music Director is a part-time position of 6 hours/week and remuneration will be commensurate with experience and qualifications as described in the RCCO Salary Guidelines. As per Diocesan requirement, the successful candidate will be required to complete the Screening in Faith process and provide a Police Records Check.

Applications should be directed to julianofnorwichottawa@gmail.com and will be received until October 18, 2017. We appreciate all expressions of interest in this position; however, only those candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No telephone calls, please.

Julian of Norwich is an inclusive church that values diversity, intergenerational engagement, collaboration, ecological responsibility, and interfaith understanding and respect, and has a strong desire to fully serve the wider community.
